

CHAPTER ELEVEN

MOMENTUM

Imagine giving up resistance and moving into flow. Imagine moving into the unknown with only Innate Intelligence at your side. Initially, this might seem like a difficult choice until we realize this is the positive side of the equation. As we follow our nose (Innate Intelligence) into present time and newfound experience, we find the mind becoming receptive to synchronicities, comforts and ease and newfound order. There is no need to outsmart the mind, decide it is wrong or bad, argue with it, or even dismiss it.

Instead, we refine the mechanism that is the mind. We teach it to shoot for newer results and easier ways of accomplishing tasks, and we teach it to opt for new open-endedness in its possibilities and outcomes. Give the mind new goals to aspire to and new habitual patterns to churn out. Learn to guide the mind and train it, and put it to work in a more useful manner! Give the mind new aspirations and introduce it to infallible Innate Intelligence – after all, they are ultimately “of” the same stuff.

VISIONARIES THRIVE IN ALL TIMES

Who says the mind won't go where we want it to go? It is nothing but a system of habitual patterns of outpourings and beliefs, and actually a bit on the mindless side, as we are discovering. The ego, supposedly in charge, is nothing but a misdirected sense of our belief in our powerlessness and separation, for which we defer to something that doesn't really exist. The mind is no more than a "servomechanism" of our being and capacity for creation, for which we have not given much thought! It is a servo-mechanism awaiting our conscious intent and instructions.

As we experience present time based upon a conscious reckoning of input aligned with Innate Intelligence, we find feelings of gratitude and joy coursing through our bodies as old ideas melt away in the pleasure of new ideas found. It is not that we give up our traditional livelihoods and move to the beach for the perpetual tan. Instead, we accept happenstance and new experiences into our field of perception as imprints of inestimable value, while we retrain the mind for its

Free will is at our "fingertips" as we reach and stretch for our possibilities.

new responsibilities. As habitual patterns have always been the dominion of the mind and its unconscious output, we feed the mind new ideas and new motivations for conscious output. As the mind begins to churn out higher quality realities and newer quality automations, we begin to experience newfound opportunities and possibilities.

As we retune our possibilities, we make way for a throughput of Universal energies that a quiet mind and refined internal circuitry make possible. As we make way for the quiet amperage of love and a newfound stillness flowing into and through our lives, our circuitry begins to hum and we become alive with the sights and sounds of Universal Correspondency. As we begin to truly live, we become truly alive. As we opt for the aliveness of Life Force coursing through our system, we realize that a stopped-up system of beliefs was the only thing in the way of our connection with Source – old wounds that seemingly never healed, resistances we couldn't overcome and minds

